

President's Report March, 2007

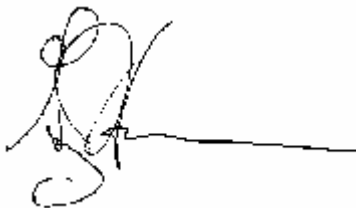

“A Long Obedience in the Same Direction.”

It is with these words that author Eugene Peterson titles his book about how most of the really important things in our lives – and in our world – are not accomplished by a single decision, act, or feat of strength but instead by a consistent and persistent effort in a focused direction.

As we renew our efforts to develop a new college campus for our County, and as we again go to the voters with a request for us to combine our resources in a shared effort to build a campus for ourselves and for our future, perhaps Eugene Peterson's thoughts can be of some encouragement to us. This thing that we are trying to accomplish is most certainly one of the most important steps in the life of our college and, while it will most certainly require our consistent and persistent efforts, I believe we should feel privileged and honored that we are the ones who have been chosen to lead our college and our community in the accomplishment of this great step forward.

Thanks for sharing in this great work with me!

Sincerely,
