As part of the Community Conversation series, the Board has invited interested members of the community to discuss Clatsop Community College's Institutional Student Learning Outcomes (ISLOs) and the role of the community in helping students achieve these learning outcomes. Attendees met in small discussion groups and spent time addressing the four following questions: 1) Which of these attributes do you believe are especially important for our graduates to possess? Why?; 2) How do graduates with these qualities benefit your business and/or our community?; 3) What do you see as your role in helping our graduates develop these qualities?; 4) What do you need from the College to help you be successful in this role?

Nadine Faith collected and will compile the ideas and information gleaned from this and future Community Conversation discussions to aid the College in partnering with the community in helping students achieve the institutional student learning outcomes. Summaries of the compiled information will be posted to the College's website.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at approximately 6:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
